ADMINISTRATIVE & BUSINESS EXPERIENCE

- 2005-13 President, School for Advanced Research, Santa Fe, NM
- Provided leadership to celebrate SAR's Centennial in 2007, worked with Board of Directors to create five-year Strategic Plan, and rebranded the SAR from the "School of American Research" to School for Advanced Research to better reflect the global reach of our programs. Worked with the Board to raise $9.3m in Centennial gifts, pledges, and bequests. Elevated national profile of SAR faculty with hiring of Dr. John Kantner (vice president for academic and institutional advancement) and Dr. Cynthia Chavez Lamar (director, Indian Arts Research Center), as well as prominent appointments to Senior Scholar program, Dr. Linda Cordell and Dr. Dean Falk. Since 2007, worked with advancement team to secure $5.856m in program and capacity-building grants to increase SAR's support of international fellows and seminars, Indigenous scholars, artists and interns, and infrastructural improvements. Doubled the number of residential and seminar researchers supported each year, presented balanced budgets during the economic downturn, and maintained full staff employment by implementing progressive compensation adjustments. Formalized SAR's status as named beneficiary of the $3 billion Anne Ray Charitable Trust. In 2012, completed negotiations and oversaw $1.8m purchase of 7.44 acres of undeveloped property adjoining the current campus, which doubled the School's landholdings and assured space for future expansion in the 21st century.
- 2002-05 Director, SAR Press, School for Advanced Research, Santa Fe
- Led the revitalization of one of the most distinguished small presses (est. 1908) in the sector, serving both the academic and popular markets. Hired Executive Editor, Business Manager, and warehouse staff. Increased sales and print productivity more than 200% in three years. Created and launched new series in archaeology for popular audiences and new titles in American Indian Arts and community engagement.
- 1981-89 Production Graphics, and Spartacus Press, Inc., Boulder, CO
- Entrepreneurial small businessman in the Denver Metro area, concentrating in graphics, advertising, and niche publishing. Major accounts included Storage Technology, Marmot Mountain Works, Lowe Alpine, The Denver, and numerous real estate development companies. Specialized in corporate identities, product strategies, and creating efficiencies in concept-to-design-to-print work flows. Sold businesses in order to pursue graduate education in California.
