

Professional Development Workshop: Academic Publishing Panel

Monday, November 17 2025
3:00 – 4:15 pm
101 LeConte Hall

Join us for a panel on academic publishing with the editor-in-chief from UGA Press and three professors from the History Department! We'll discuss book proposals, the peer review process, tips for turning a dissertation into a monograph, and more. Bring any questions you may have regarding the wide world of academic publishing! Questions? Contact benjamin.prostine@uga.edu.

Panelists

Nathaniel Holly - Editor-in-chief at UGA Press.

Joseph Kellner - Assistant Professor of History and the author of The Spirit of Socialism: Culture and Belief at the Soviet Collapse (Cornell, 2025)

Susan Mattern - Distinguished Research Professor of History and the author of numerous books. Her most recent book is The Slow Moon Rises: The Science, History, and Meaning of Menopause (Princeton, 2019)

Danielle Raad - Assistant Professor of History and Museum Studies and the author of the forthcoming Above the Oxbow: Stories Entangled with a Mountain (West Virginia, Feb. 2026)

A Graduate Student Workshop Presented by the History Graduate Student Association

Department of History
Franklin College of Arts and Sciences
UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA